Women's Work in the War is the litle of a book written by W. Irvins-dullard and issued through one of the lepartments of the Merchants Na-lonal bank of Boston, with which Mr Bullard is connected.

Bullard is connected.

Reports of the American government, of the British and other allied governments, were reviewed by Mr. Bullard in collecting information which he has incorporated in the book in an interesting and instructive way. The facts set forth in the book set down in concrete form a tribute to the womanhood of America in a time of crisis as grave as the nation, and civilization, here and clsewhere, has experienced.
